JAP FLIERS MAKE ATTACKS ON FLEET

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

GEN. MACARTHUR'S
HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 29.—Already battered and pummeled by American artillery and aerial bombardments, the Japanese garrison at Ormoc on Leyte Island now has felt the might of U. S. destroyers.
Gen. MacArthur announced today.

Entering the Philippine campaign for the first time, the destroyers steamed through inland enemy waters Monday and three hundreds of shells against the Jap stronghold in strategic Ormoc Bay.

Three Hour Bombing

In fact, the destroyers ranged for three hours along the whole 40-mile coastline of the bay, systematically pounding Jap shore defenses and running down small enemy coastal vessels.

While this attack was going, Mac-Arthur reported that a strong formation of Jap warplanes attacked American warships maneuvering in Leyte gulf, on the eastern shore of Leyte.

The enemy formation included fighters and torpedo bombers and made their attack at about noon Monday, according to the communications.

The ships were a part of Vice Admiral Thomas Kinkaid's Seventh fleet. The attack caused "some damage and casualties," Gen. Mac-Arthur reported.

Fifteen Jap Planes Downed

blasted out of the skies during the raid by the accurate shooting of

YANK ARMIES FORGE AHEAD

On all sectors of the western front, the Allies are pushing back the German armies. The Americans, in particular, have scored amazing successes. The First Army took the fortified town of Weisweiler in a drive toward the Cologne plain. The Third Army swept clear through the Magnet Line east of Metz. The Seventh Army thrust 10 miles through the saales Pass in the Vosges mountains, reaching the Alsace plain. The British Second pushed the Germans into a small pocket at Venlo. The American Ninth fought into Kolsar. The French First cleared Nazi forts east of Belfort.

Bond Selling Drive Pushed

Solicitors for the sixth war loan campaign are discovering that an extra ounce of persuasion oftentimes means an extra bond and thus far in the campaign there have been many sales that could rate as "plus" sales.

One of the townships will turn in a nice total of bonds. It was learned today, through persuasion and hard work. A half million dollar sale is said to have been made which will be credited to the township. Not every solicitor can expect to turn in sales like that but a little extra work will turn in a lot of additional $25, $50 or $100 bonds. Judge W.
Walter Braham, county chairman, today urged solicitors to put out the extra ounce of energy in order to meet the $6,000,000 quota set for the county.

No report was made today of the total bond sales although a hurried perusal of the sales seemed to indicate about $400,000 had been added. This isn't enough on the average day's sale but will probably be made up later.

Bond sales this week and up to December 9 carry with them tickets to the radio star show in the Cathedral on December 9.

Jap Report Says New Attack Is Made On Saipan

Saipan, in the Marianas, headquarters of B-29 Superfortress squadrons operating against Tokyo, were attacked again at noon today

Crucial Week Near On Western Front

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG
(Written Especially For International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Perhaps the most crucial week of the war on the European western front is concluded. Without doubt the world will see in the immediate future the most terrific combat in that area yet known to man.

All news reports from the western area state that the Allied armies are prepared and set for an all-out offensive. That means supplies have been placed, replacements and reinforcements are at hand and the lines of communication are in condition to transport immediately any and all of the vast amount of supplies, arms and munitions needed by the seven great Allied armies which are now delivering terrific blows. Those armies are apparently now prepared to assault for the purpose of the death blow.

Even more important, Gen. Eisenhower has straightened the line of the western front from its northern extremity in Holland southward all the way to the Alps.

It should be remembered that the Russian strategy in each of their past great offensive blows has been to straighten their general line of battle as well as regroup and replenish their armies.

Great Offensive Near Practically all German news agencies are adding their voice to that of the Allies to the effect that

Japanese Claim Counter Landing Invasion Made

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(INS)—
The landing of a "powerful Japanese unit" on Morotai island, in the northern Halmahera group 300 miles south of the Philippines, in a counter-invasion against American forces was reported today by the Jap Domei agency.

Domei termed the operation, unconfirmed in allied quarters, a "bloodless counter-landing."
The wireless dispatch, heard by the FCC, said that the landing on the island, where Gen. Douglas MacArthur sent forces ashore to spread his return to the Philippines, was effected at dawn on November 26.

The Japs said that now "bitter fighting is progressing on the island between our unit and American troops."

Domei reported the Jap landing was made "at the very rear of enemy positions" on Morotai, taking the Americans "by surprise."

JAPS BATTLE TO HALT BRITISH IN BURMA DRIVE

KANDY, Ceylon, Nov. 29.—(INS)—
British troops today met stubborn Japanese resistance on the approaches of the Chindwin river port of Kalewa, gateway to central Burma, while other allied columns crossed the stream to the north of the beleaguered stronghold.

Meanwhile West African forces were attacking the Japanese to the

Churchill Alters His Prediction On Victory Date

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(INS)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill today publicly revised his former predication that the war in Europe would end by "early summer" of 1945, moving back the date of victory to "summer."

In a talk to parliament outlining the reasons for his step, the British war leader, who will celebrate his 70th birthday tomorrow, asserted:

"The truth is that no one knows when the German war will be finished and still less how long the interval will be between the defeat of the Germans and defeat of the Japanese."

"My personal inclination is not at all to mitigate this earlier forecast. Indeed, if I were to make any change in the duration of the unfolding of events it would be to leave out the word 'early' before the word 'summer'."

The German war has been thrust back everywhere, Churchill said, characterizing American capture of Strasbourg and Metz as "glorious and massive achievements."

The two had shared the hotel room on coming to Rochester for physical check-ups at the Mayo clinic. The body of Miss Easthagen was discovered after her friend had returned to Minneapolis by taxicab and reported to a physician there that Miss Easthagen was dead.

County Attorney Thomas Scanlan quoted Miss Gilbertson as saying that she and Miss Easthagen had quarreled and that "everything went blank and suddenly Minnie was lying on the bed—I knew she was dead."

Russian Fourth Ukrainian Army Drives Westward

Stubborn Nazi Resistance
And Weather Handicaps
Fail To Halt Reds

SIXTY TOWNS ARE SEIZED IN ADVANCE

By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Nov. 29.—Beating down stubborn Nazi resistance and overcoming weather handicaps, the Soviet fourth Ukrainian army today slogged steadily westward today in eastern Czechoslovakia through hills and forests after seizing 60 towns and villages, including three important rail and highway junctions.

An official Soviet communique disclosed that the red army forces had seized Stropkov in a battle which cost the Germans 400 dead and 150 prisoners. The highway junction of Vyshne-Svidnik also was captured in the push westward toward the vital rail cities of Presov and Kassa.

Stropkov, some 23 miles northwest of Presov, is only 12 miles from the southern frontier of Poland.

Vyshne-Svidnik is only 10 miles from Duka pass, one of the major communications routes of the Nazis between Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Plough Through Flood

At the same time Moscow revealed that Soviet columns had continued their drive westward from Ungvar, ploughing through flooded territory to wrest several strongly fortified strongpoints from the Nazis.

The German transocean agency asserted that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is speeding reinforcements by air to General Hodges.

"American reserves now are landing in transport aircraft just behind the actual fighting line," the dispatch said.

Paratroops Halt Trains
Allied paratroops were credited by the London Standard with halting all German railroad transportation along the northern bank of the Rhine above Switzerland. A dispatch to that paper, from the Swiss-Alsatian frontier said not a single train had moved since Tuesday morning and declared the Germans attributed this to continued sabotage by paratroops.

(BBC heard by CBS, said in a Swiss dispatch that a state of siege has been declared in the German province of Baden.)

(The siege decree included the area of the lower Rhine opposite the Allied armies in Alsace. The evacuation of civilians was said to be underway.)

Third Army Smashing Deeper Into Germany; Menaces Saarbrücken

By THURSTON MACAULEY
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Nov. 29.—American First Army troops, surging closer to Duren and Cologne, climaxed a month-long battle southeast of Aachen today by capturing the village of Hurtgen in fighting which the Nazi DNB agency described as "the bloodiest and most terrible" of the entire war.

(A Blue Network correspondent with the First Army reported the Doughboys also captured the town of Lan-gerwehe, in the heart of which they were fighting the Germans late yesterday.)

To the south, the U. S. Third Army battered its way deeper into the Reich, hurling the weight of one column against the Siegfried line in the Saar region near Merzig and increasing its threat to the great industrial city of Saarbrücken.

In their continued advance, Lieut. Gen. Courtney H.
Hodges' men overran Jungsersdorf, less than four miles west of Duren, clamping tighter their siege arc now being extended around that vital road center through which runs the main highway to Cologne from the southwest.

Dorsey Defense Lawyers Center On Hall's Stories

By JULIAN HARTT
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—Defense lawyers in the Tommy Dorsey case today set heavy guns for the expected testimony of Actor Jon Hall, whom Dorsey and two others are accused of assaulting in their August 5 "battle of the balcony."

Final selection of a jury in Superior Judge Arthur Crum's court was expected momentarily.

Jerry Giesler, counsel for Allen Smiley—named along with the band leader and his trim-figured young wife, Pat Dane Dorsey, in felonious assault indictments—focused the attention of prospective jurors upon Hall, not present in court, with the question:

"If it is shown in evidence that a leading actor, a star—Jon Hall—told his story in two different ways, at different times, under oath, would you let the fact that he's a star excuse him?"

The tentative panel members, then composed of 11 women and a lone male, pledged they would give the same careful scrutiny to a movie star's testimony as to the testimony, as Giesler put it, "of any Johnny Jones."

aircraft batteries. This number comprised more than half of the attacking force.

It was the strongest single bid of the Japs to date against the powerful Allied naval units which have been screening MacArthur's great liberation forces since the first day of the Leyte invasion.

The warships were 30 miles offshore, but they threw such a tremendous amount of fire into the skies that it was visible to observers on shore.

Night Attacks Also

During the night the enemy again staged a series of harassing attacks against sea and shore installations in the Tacloban sector, but damage was described as negligible, and bombing was inaccurate due to low cloud formations over the area.

Meanwhile ground action on the northwest section of the island was held motionless for the second straight day, due to heavy rains which have transformed the battle area around the Ormoc corridor into a vast sea of mud and water.

the south. Both Sarre union and Saarwerden were penetrated at their outskirts by mechanized cavalry spearheads.

The American Seventh Army matched the gains of the First and Ninth by slamming forward three miles along its entire front and extending its Strasburg salient far to the north, the Paris radio said.

Gen. Patton pressed his campaign into the Saar as the Germans were rolled back steadily by American and French units at the southern end of the battle line and fierce battles continued to rage in the north where the American First and Ninth armies drove into positions from which they can strike across the Roer river and out onto the plain before Cologne.

A front dispatch reported that on the American Ninth Army front all organized German resistance had ceased in the town of Koeslar, near the supply base of Julich on the Roer.

Some Nazis Trapped

The French First Army at the southern end of the western front snapped close a trap around an unestimated number of Germans who were caught in the Vosges mountain pocket before they could make their way back across the Rhine.

The Nazi forces were bagged when the French in the Belfort-Mulhouse area closed the jaws of a pincers which had been separated by a 10-mile gap.

At the same time a smaller German salient south of the Rhine-Rhone canal was sealed off.

Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army in the Saar region lumbered forward at several points to batter their way deeper into the Reich and threatened the cities of Sarre Union and Saarbrücken.

One Yank column struck to within three and one-half miles of Saarbrücken against heavy German mortar and artillery fire.

Armored reconnaissance forces penetrated into the outskirts of Sarre Union after pushing the German back from the Saar river. Fall of the city, 12 miles from the Reich frontier, will give the Americans control of an important traffic network.

Closer To Saarbrücken

Mile by mile General Patton's men moved closer to Saarbrücken and Sarreguimines.

After Yank spearheads smashed to within about eight miles of Saarbrücken, the Germans staged a futile counter-attack some nine miles southwest of the city in an effort to break off the American forward units.

Troops of the 96th Division advanced two miles into Germany, striking beyond Keislingen to points five miles west of Saarbrücken.

Field headquarters disclosed that since November 8 General Patton's army has taken 23,599 prisoners.

Front dispatches said that while some mechanized Third Army Cavalry fought into the outskirts of Sarre Union similar forces entered Saarwerden and pushed north beyond the town.

No Change At Strasburg

Headquarters reported no change in the situation around Strasburg where the southern wing of the Third Army linked forces with the northern units of the American Seventh Army commanded by Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch. The Germans still clung to a strong bridgehead on the western side of the Rhine to guard bridges over the waterway.

North of Strasburg the Yanks gained three miles and engaged the enemy in fighting inside Wintershausen and Betsendorf.

Lower down on the Vosges front, north of Saverne, the Allied forces crossed the Moder river and reached Zutzendorf and Ingwiller and continued to score steady gains against moderate Nazi resistance. Some tank opposition was encountered.

The main Sarreguimines-Hagenau road and railway were crossed. To the southeast, Weinbourg was taken.

West of Ingwiller, the Germans blew up a big ammunition dump to prevent its capture.

Take Town Of Struth

In the vicinity of Phalsburg the Allies took the town of Struth.

West of Jungwiler resistance was stiff in the area of the junction of the Third and Seventh armies.

South of the Saales pass in the Vosges, Allied forces reached Grenelbach and also Rosenwiler. Farther south fighting raged in the outskirts of Barr and the Allies battled along the approaches to Dieffenbach, north of St. Marie pass. St. Croix was passed and the Allies pushed on to take Lievre in the St. Marie pass.

Through the whole northern Vosges area the Germans were being rolled back steadily.

The French First Army liberated more than 30 additional inhabited places at the southern end of the front when the first corps coming from the west drove northeast and joined forces with other units west of Mulhouse in the area of Burnhaupt-Le-Haut, 10 miles due west of Mulhouse.

Considerable booty was taken in the drive.

Mexico has decreed that 60 percent of all tillable land be planted to corn.

They say a Jap fights hardest when he's cornered. We've got Japan cornered... but the fight is still hard, still costly. Every bond you buy in the Sixth War Loan Drive is your way of saluting the brave men fighting a tough, brutal enemy in the South Pacific. And it costs billions every month to keep the never-ending stream of

B-29 Superfortresses, amphibious tanks, bulldozers, high octane gasoline and oil flowing to the Pacific war front. So long as a single Jap faces our men on the field of battle, our duty at home is clear: we must keep on buying War Bonds. You MUST invest in at least one extra hundred dollar bond in the "Get Japan" Drive—the Sixth!

This great offensive blow on the western front is hourly and momentarily expected. Nazi sources also state that the commander-in-chief of the Allied armies has completed his all-necessary preparations.

No one can foretell what the result of this coming terrific offensive action may be. We may be certain however that the supreme command would not prepare for such a battle if he were not convinced that it could be pushed to a successful conclusion regardless of winter weather.

Apparently the lines of communication, both east and west, in rear of the Allied armies have been repaired and are in top condition. Allied superiority in the air almost forbids the Nazi bombing of these supply lines.

French Rail Lines O. K.

France has a great network of railroads. Very recently it was announced that the rail lines of that country were practically restored to 100 percent operation.

There are north-south rail roads which extend from Switzerland to Holland. The great port of Antwerp is probably now in workable condition as a base of supplies. Remember the greatest problem of modern war is supply. With the number of Allied fighting men now on the western front, the quantity and weight of supplies runs into astronomical figures. The rapid-firing weapons of today make that problem even more difficult because of the huge flow of ammunition which is required.

It now appears that the present offensive action by all of General Eisenhower's armies will continue to gain in crushing power for the entire length of the line. However, again the answer will only be written on the battlefield in letters of blood.

INSPECT TRAFFIC MENACE

Councilmen D. O. Davies and James Gibson today inspected State Street hill where the city proposes to remove a pole at the left top of the hill and which is considered a traffic menace.

There are, actually, white blackberries.

Acid Indigestion

Relieved in 5 minutes or double your money back. When a weak stomach acid causes painful, burning, gas, sour stomach and flatulence, doctors usually prescribe the fastest-acting medicines known for immediate relief. Medicines like these in Bell and Taylor's No. 1 Acid-Relief Pills are more effective in a 15-minute return bottle to us for double money back, 25c.

FACTS

about

STORM WINDOWS

You have noticed the large number of homes where storm sash is being installed.

There are sound reasons behind this. When the window is sealed on your frame a dead air space is created between the two windows, holding the heat back in the house. The principle is much like that of a thermos bottle, with its two containers holding in the heat.

Fuel savings on the average home are 33%. This alone pays for the windows in time.

The windows also seal out all dirt, something every housewife appreciates.

MASTER-BUILT storm window is the only window with ALL of the following features:

1. Genuine California Redwood. Lasts a lifetime.
2. Interchangeable from glass to screen from inside the house.
3. Screens fit top or bottom.
4. Interlocked (tongue and groove) joints throughout.
5. Defroster to prevent steaming windows.
6. Ventilator on all windows.
7. Deal direct with the factory, saving distribution costs.

Terms: Cash or monthly payments up to 36 months. No down payment. First payment after February 15.

Phone for our estimator to show you the window and give price at absolutely no obligation.

Buying More Bonds

The Sixth War Loan campaign provides an opportunity for every citizen to have a part in bringing an end to the war.

It is hardly necessary to remind those at home that the critical days of the conflict are here. They will be expensive days, both in the blood of fighting men and the tools with which they fight. Supplies will be needed as never before. Thousands upon thousands of American boys wounded in battle deserve the best care and hospitalization money can provide.

It is futile optimism to believe the war soon will be over. It may last for months in Europe, for years in the Pacific. Billions of dollars will be needed, and the government has no place to turn for those billions except to its citizens. Regardless of the triteness of the statement, it is a fact that money will be worthless without victory.

General Eisenhower, speaking from the mud of European battlefronts, says the success of the war bond campaign is an immediate and important obligation. To the question: "Shall we buy?" there can be only one answer.

See Home Benefits

Many men in the armed services will have experienced the horror of uncontrolled fire by the time they return from the war. They also will have seen scientific fire prevention at work.

When the Americans invaded Africa, the Germans sought to burn them out. Incendiary-laden bombers struck at our supply lines. General Eisenhower called urgently for trained fire fighters. In response, the Army Engineers established a school in this country to train men in the use of the latest fire fighting equipment. Since then, more than six thousand men have undergone this specialized training and have been sent to every theater of operations. The school features methods of combating gasoline, oil, and ammunition fires, with particular emphasis on plane crash blazes. In fighting the latter, squads operating like a football team punch a wedge-shaped path through the wall of flame with high-pressure curtains of spray. Rescue men clad in asbestos suits dash between the protective sheets of spray and get the crews out in from 10 to 20 seconds.

All of this may not seem to have much connection with fire prevention in civilian life. But the very fact that thousands of men will come home with pictures of the tragedy that fire can wreak impressed upon their minds, while other thousands will have a basic knowledge of how to combat fire, should reflect favorably on the cause of fire prevention. These men will be a little more cautious with fire in their homes. They will unconsciously use greater care in the handling and storing of inflammable or combustible materials. From them, their families will learn caution.

These men who have had experience with fire in war, although they may not realize it, will make better citizens because of their experience.

Rubber For National Security

One of the major problems confronting the new synthetic rubber industry in the United States, a creature of wartime emergency, is that of competing on a price basis with natural rubber, when it is again available in large quantities.

Perhaps the most encouraging figures yet brought forward in this connection have been submitted by a leading figure in synthetic rubber research, Dr. Waldo L. Semon, an official of the B. F. Goodrich company. He states that it is now indicated that on a peacetime basis synthetic rubber could be produced for an out-of-pocket cost of less than 11 cents a pound.

The pre-war market price of natural rubber was 22 cents a pound, but Dr. Semon is careful to point out that from 1935 to 1938 80 per cent of the plantation rubber produced in the world could have been laid down in New York at a total cost of 12 cents a pound.

Regardless of cost, or the willingness of consumers to pay a high price for natural rubber, it will naturally take some time, possibly two years, after the war for the Far East plantations to turn out the product in any great quantity. If 1,000,000 tons a year are produced, it will still be insufficient to meet the postwar demand estimated at the starting figure of 1,600,000 tons yearly.

Quite apart from supply and demand fluctuations, it is Dr. Semon's contention that an assured supply of rubber is essential to American military security, as we have discovered from bitter experience, and that a minimum annual output of 200,000 tons of American synthetic rubber should therefore be maintained regardless of economic factors.

This is good advice and it should be followed as a matter of national security.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Christmas Seals Are Needed

Christmas Seal time is here again. This heartwarming practice of buying cheerful little seals to help combat tuberculosis began just 40 years ago and has since become a world-wide tradition. The Christmas Seals are sold in 46 countries. This year, as usual, they make their appearance. In a war-torn world they are reassuring reminders that we live in a civilized world after all and humanity has a streak of goodness in it that will not be put down.

This year, as never before, the Christmas Seals are needed. Tuberculosis is on the increase. The steady progress of medical science in the treatment of the disease has not been sufficient to stem the debilitating inroads of war. Our crowded war production centers, overwork and nervous exhaustion have been an open invitation to tuberculosis. The great tragedy is that too many persons don't realize it when the unwelcome guest has found its way into their homes.

Yes, the Christmas Seal has new significance this year. It is one means by which all of us can take part in the fight against the renewed threat of man's ancient enemy—the white plague.

Merry Christmas By V-Mail

Christmas culminates the activity that has been taking place at all Navy V-Mail facilities, particularly at Pearl Harbor, where approximately 60,000 Christmas V-Mail greeting forms have been produced daily for distribution among service personnel.

With demands for this wartime substitute exceeding production capacity, millions of homes will receive these greetings which, although devoid of traditionally colorful designs, will convey the sentiments of the season.

The Navy urges that when the families and friends of the men overseas receive these V-Mail greetings that they reply by V-Mail and in this way contribute to lessening the airload.

Air transportation in the fighting areas is threatened as each advance is made; and in the event mails are clogged, V-Mail, as usual, has priority over all other mail.

Workable Compromise On Reconversion Seen

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—It would be difficult to find two men of more opposite temperaments than the new chairman of the War Production Board, 37-year-old J. A. Krug, and the Under Secretary of War, Robert P. Patterson.

Krug operates from the center of a massive calm that seems to absorb all emotional shocks. Patterson is a flaming crusader who is at high tension all the time.

Yet these two dissimilar men have reached what seems to be a workable compromise on this question of civilian versus war production. In areas where it is necessary to reconvert labor to reopen small arms ammunition plants and otherwise expand the war program, reconversion to washing machines and flat irons will be stopped dead. But in other areas where no such situation exists and where some cutbacks have left idle workers, a limited reconversion will be allowed.

Compromise Not Approved
Neither Patterson nor Krug wholly approves of this compromise.

The fighting under secretary of war would stop all but the minimum essentials of civilian life. He battled fiercely last summer against Donald M. Nelson when the latter, as WPB chairman, proposed his plan to allow a limited return to the manufacture of civilian goods.

Today Patterson is inclined to say "I told you so. He pointed to a cartoon showing the civilian camel getting into the military tent and then pushing all the way in. That, he says, is exactly what has happened."

Krug takes a more moderate view. It doesn't do any good, he insists, to stop reconversion in one city where there is an ample labor supply, because another city a thousand miles away is short of war workers. At this stage of the war, it is difficult or impossible to get people to move from one area to another for a war job.

In relation to the total of men and women at work—some 60,000,000—the number needed to reopen the ammunition plants is small. Between 75,000 and 80,000 would do it. The need is, of course, imperative. The young Americans can fight it out in the mud and snow of a miserable European winter, then we can send them the bullets. In many areas it will not be easy to find the necessary hands.

Must Build It Up Again
In Salt Lake City, where a small arms ammunition plant was completely closed down, 6,000 workers must be recruited, and labor is already scarce there. In St. Louis, employment in the small arms plant was reduced from 31,000 to less than 15,000, and now it must be built up again to peak strength.

It seems a long time ago that we were under the spell of an imminent blitz victory. Not alone the public, but our military leaders, too, believed in the late summer and early fall that the rush across France would carry beyond the German border.

For one thing, military intelligence apparently underestimated the number of Nazi troops that escaped into Germany. The Allied bag of prisoners was so big—more than 700,000—that it hardly seemed possible any substantial number could have got away.

Yet now it appears that far more seasoned troops got out of France than originally estimated had indicated. Likewise, our calculations of the time and material required to demolish the German border fortifications were on the optimistic side.

The order for vast new quantities of small arms ammunition is a measure of how serious a view the general staff takes off the fighting ahead of us in Europe. The cold, of course, be in error this time on the side of pessimism.

We'd better not count on that. Now is the time to buckle down to work to finish the job. It may be the seventh or the eighth or even the last of the ninth inning, but carelessness and indifference could still delay the end.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

MOUTH ORGAN

It was once just the toy of a lad. Now it sings under carrier decks. When the weather in Burma is bad and the boys seem in mud to their necks.

And the air has the dampness of death.
Some chap with the musical gift, Who was born with a song on his breath.

Gives his down-hearted comrades a life.
"Harmonica" now it is called.
"Mouth organ" we knew it of old.

But wherever a column is stalled, Or boys are off watch in the hold, Or the planes have come in from the skies.

Or on rafts where a few are adrift, Some lad with a mouth organ tries. The spirits of comrades to lift.

We thought it in happier years, A toy for a youngster to blow. Now an organ of faith it appears. For it goes where our forces must go.

It is small, but it's great in its way, For the saddest of moods it can shift. And the songs it was fashioned to play. Give the fellows who hear them a lift.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DON'T ASK TOO MUCH OF BABY

Many mother expect too much of the baby, say from 11 to 20 months of age, such as that he shall tell his mother when he needs to go to the toilet, that he shall come to her when she calls him or will stay alone happily in his pen outside the house or inside it. Here let me suggest a few don'ts.

1. Don't expect the baby being trained in toilet habits to take responsibility for "telling" you when to "go." Be very happy, however, if he does. Take sole responsibility yourself and be so patient and skillful as to win his gradual cooperation. I just wish no mother would let herself grow vexed at a baby or young child over this training.

2. Don't expect this baby to be content for more than a few minutes at a stretch in his baby pen indoors or out with nobody else near or in sight. To let him cry it out is not at all the same as to let him cry it out after he is tucked into bed for his nap or the night. Fatigue from the crying in bed should render him more ready for sleep.

Baby Likes Company

The same type of fatigue from crying while in his pen hardly prepares the youngster to amuse himself and be happy alone at play. While awake, he likes company. If you can have his pen on the porch just outside your window or in doors where he can see you at your work, except for very short intervals, he might gradually turn his head. If you must be out of his sight, let him cry, but return after a few minutes and never stay away for a very long period. Wonderful for him if he as creeps or toddles, he can follow you about the house as you make the beds and the like; even while you are in the kitchen, provided you have trained him that there are a few definite things he must not have or do.

3. Don't expect this baby to come to you from another room or in the same room when you call to him. Calmly go to him and, if necessary, get him without making it a game of chase or a matter for your vexation.

Feeding Problems

4. Don't expect this baby to enjoy food that is pushed into him faster than his own comfortable rate. He is of guard or after he has indicated he does not want it. My special bulletin, "Eating Problems: How to Prevent or Cure Them," may be had for postage by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a three-cent stamped envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

5. Don't expect this baby to eat daily at the age of 13 months or two years. Be happy if he eats heartily with his bare hands even though he makes a mess of it. When he feeds himself in his most comfortable way he gains added enjoyment of the food through the fascinating, self-reliant activity. Even with the tot of four or five, don't stress table manners from adult standards. Spanking him or slapping his hands in connection with eating tends to connect with food-taking and lessens appetite. Limit necessary punishment to other times. If he plays with the food merely remove it without a word and let his meal end.

The World and the Mud Puddles

THE ONLY WAY

An Italian Count has set a precedent which must be of acute interest to Hitler, Himmler, Goering, Goebbels and their satellites. He has sentenced to death Pietro Casuso, former chief of police of Rome, for aiding the Nazi forces in their liquidation of a large number of Italian citizens, and the sentence executed. Casuso was given a legal trial and allowed the benefit of defense counsel, being sentenced on proof of guilt.

The guilt of this relatively insignificant official, of course, is trifling in comparison with that of the Nazi overlords who have been responsible for the murder and torture of hundreds of thousands of defenseless persons in every country occupied by Germans. Casuso was a fool, possibly acting under orders which he could disobey only at the cost of his own life. This does not mitigate his guilt, and the sentence of the court will be accepted as just.

Nazism's official murderers doubtless cling to hopes of mercy from enemies who have scrupulously adhered to the rules of civilized warfare. Unless the Allied powers are lacking in sense of justice, however, and willing to let mistaken mercy leave the way open for another onslaught against civilization, they will unhesitatingly follow the precedent set by the Italian Court.

BABY'S SECOND YEAR
Baby's second year is usually pretty much of a problem. So is the first year.

There are many new things for him to learn. Teething and walking and talking and eating and dressing are all new experiences. He has grown a lot since he was born. He will not grow so fast now. He will not need so much food in proportion to his size.

He must learn to eat many new foods. Some of them will agree with him. Some will not. He will be satisfied with a small amount of some foods. He will want a large serving of others. Mother and Dad should learn the values of different foods so that he may get enough suitable nourishment.

Milk is good for him. If he likes to drink it give it to him that way. If he gets tired of drinking it straight, try different flavors. Use it in puddings and soups. He will get the benefit just about the same.

Hints On Etiquette
A verbal thank-you is enough to friends who give you baby shower gifts personally, but it is a thoughtful and appreciated gesture also to supplement these thanks with notes.

Let the good word be passed along to the baby's sox brigade, that doesn't read very well. It was Sumatra that was bombed, not a crooner.—Detroit.

Half Million Peace Time Army Suggested
Much Larger Navy Also Being Considered
Old Age Tax Scheduled For Increase Soon

By HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Rep.

Andrew J. May (D) of Kentucky, chairman of the House military affairs committee, believes that the nation's peace-time Army probably will consist of 500,000 to 600,000 men.

This would be almost double our pre-war Army, which numbered 302,962 (infantry men and 13,192 officers on Aug. 31, 1940—its lowest point since World War I. The Army now consists of approximately eight million men, while the Navy, according to Chairman David I. Walsh (D) of Massachusetts, of the Senate naval affairs committee, has about three and a half million officers and men.

May said he did not know how large a Navy personnel was being planned for after the war but that presumably it would be considerably larger than its previous peace-time strength.

Old Age Tax To Jump

More than 60 million workers should get ready for another tax increase Jan. 1—an automatic doubling of the old age pension payroll tax which like the income withholding levy, is deducted from pay checks.

A movement has been started in Congress by Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R) of Michigan to freeze the tax at present rates. But while Vandenberg has been successful in forcing through a tax-free provision in each of the last three years, luck is in danger of running out this time.

The reason is that there is no revenue bill from the House on which to fasten a tax-free provision this year. And if one does come along, it may be an unimportant measure which President Roosevelt would not hesitate to veto.

In past years, Vandenberg has succeeded in nailing tax-free riders on bills which Mr. Roosevelt could not well veto. Unless the tax is frozen at the present level, it will automatically become 2 per cent on employees and two per cent on employers on Jan. 1. It is now 1 per cent on each.

One of the war's experiments—the intense effort to develop wooden airplanes—has fizzled as far as the Army is concerned. The war department just recently canceled the last of its contracts for plywood aircraft, although wood construction still is being used in gliders which are considered expendable.

The Army had no success with the plywood plane. Its chief complaint was that to make them structurally safe, the planes had to be "strengthened" here and there and "beefed up" to the point where they were overweight.

Then, too, the surplus of light metals sounded the death knell for wooden military aircraft. One of the prime reasons for the Army's experimental work was the shortage of aluminum early in the war.

Cigarette Shortage Looms
With cigarette rationing proposals tossed overboard by OPA Chief Chester Bowles and the War Food Administration, biggest problem facing smokers today is "When can we expect some popular brands?"

There is plenty of tobacco to make more cigarettes, but manufacturers complain of labor shortages and lack of heavy cardboard shipping containers. Meanwhile, because the producers can not pay higher wages, their plant machines stand idle and the public continues to face the biggest cigarette shortage in history.

Trade sources assert that until the manpower situation is eased, the cigarette shortage will continue—despite well-stocked tobacco warehouses and the desire of the manufacturers to boost production.

Some women smokers are changing over to small briar pipes for their nicotine diversion while others are "rolling their own." And cigarettes are rolling off normally from 14 to 18 cents a pack are bringing in big profits in the black market channels. Chicago reports show them selling for 70 to 75 cents with like prices prevailing in black markets in many other cities.

Look To Yourself
By GRACIE ALLEN

Everyone knows that the Sixth War Loan is the most important one yet. It's true that buying an extra hundred dollar bond during the other drives let you "slap a dap" or "clout a Kraut," but now it's even more fun.

MacArthur and Eisenhower have got them facing the other way. My husband, George Burns, and I have been out selling bonds in our neighborhood. We had a wonderful technique. George would ring the front door bell and when the folks came to the door he'd start to sing. Then I'd run around to the back door and sell the bonds.

When we got home and checked up we found that only one house in the neighborhood was unaccounted for. We made the rounds four times before we discovered that it was us. The moral is, let's worry about ourselves first. If each one of us buys an extra hundred dollar bond during the Sixth War Loan it's bound to be a success.

Just What Are Effects Of Cigaret Shortage?

When people want to get controversial, now that the election is over, they seem to be turning more and more to the question of "are we worse or better for not being able to get as many cigarettes as usual?" There are the diehards who swear that you can't be healthy and smoke, and the smokers who swear that they need a cigarette or a good pipeful of tobacco now and then to relieve the day's tensions and to relax their nerves.

Both sides can go on scrapping as long as they want to, as far as science is concerned, according to Dr. W. A. Womer, city health superintendent. The latest investigations, he says, made at the post-graduate medical school in New York City, seem to show that tobacco doesn't have much effect one way or the other.

Relaxing, or stimulating effects of tobacco seem to be largely a state of mind, continues the health superintendent. Prescribing something to take the place of a cigarette for a person who feels he "has to have one" is difficult unless you know why the person feels that way.

A middle-of-the-afternoon pick-up, which is what a cigarette is for many people, is good psychology, Dr. Womer believes. Schools have recess, the English have tea, but the adult American has nothing except his convenient cigarette.

Women, or even men, could take up knitting or crocheting to take care of that "what-shall-I-do-with-my-hands" feeling, and those who aren't too afraid of calories, could suck lozenges now and then.

"The trouble with a lot of people," says Dr. Womer, "is that they have funny ideas about eating. They grab a piece of toast for breakfast, a puny little lunch, and wait until five or six o'clock before they really eat anything. No wonder they feel tense and tired about three o'clock in the afternoon. It's food they need, not tobacco.

Have Important Roles In Senior Play On Friday

David Flaminio George Rubenson

Two important roles in the senior high school production of "Arsenic and Old Lace" will be played by David Flaminio and George Rubenson.

David is cast as Jonathan Brewster, the black sheep of the Brewster family who returns just in time to share in the amazing events of one night at the old homestead.

George plays Teddy Brewster, who is under the delusion that he is Teddy Roosevelt. Teddy dashes on and off the stage bent on important missions and by his inopportune activities furnishes considerable comic relief.

David Flaminio is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Flaminio, Sr., of Neal street. George Rubenson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Rubenson of Laurel boulevard.

Deshon Annex Soldiers Honored

Nurses Aides Of New Castle Hospital Hostesses At Party

Tuesday Evening

Soldiers from the Deshon annex were honored Tuesday evening at an informal party sponsored by the Red Cross Nurses Aides of the New Castle hospital. The party was held in the spacious rooms of the Ecclesian club, South Jefferson and South streets. This is the second party held for the Deshon annex soldiers, both being very successful, with a large crowd in attendance.

A grand march started the gay program. Dancing followed the pleasing melodies of Mike Scungio and his local musicians. Other pastimes of 500 and contests were also featured on the program.

During intermission, special acts were performed by local people on the program: baton and Hawaiian dance by Maxine Slaven, accompanied on the piano by her mother, Mrs. Florence Slaven; accordion selections by Joseph DeMatteo; dance by Patty Jo Leyde; acrobatic number by Georgene Mannick; quartet dance number: Rosemary Factor, Nancy Juliano, Donna Smith and Dorothy Barge.

Community singing was later enjoyed by the group. On behalf of the Ecclesian club, Ray McAnley extended a welcome to the soldiers to use the facilities of the Ecclesian club at all times.

A delicious lunch was served in the upstairs dining room of the Ecclesian club. The tables were beautifully arranged for the occasion, and the group ate by candlelight. Afterwards songs were sung with Frances Helstern at the piano.

Special guests attending included the Red Cross Nurses aides committee, and others: Mrs. Harry Barkby, chairman, Mrs. W. J. Kinard, Mrs. W. Hayford, Mrs. William Nelson, Mrs. John Elliott, Leah Davis, Miss Elizabeth Breslin, executive secretary of the Lawrence County Chapter American Red Cross, Miss Mary Lou Hickey, recreational director of the American Red Cross; Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser, Mrs. Josephine Hite and Mrs. Eva Nelson.

Miss Margaret O'Connell was the chairman of the party and is given credit for the evening's success. She was assisted by Rose Uhl, Emma Evans, Frances Helstern, Mrs. Gladys McConnell, Mrs. Fannie Sherman, Cecelia Dougherty, Mrs. Margaret Capezio and Doris Lord. Mrs. Robert Peterson assisted in the pouring.

Students Injured When Bus Upsets

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 29.—(INS)—Fifteen to twenty high school students were injured, none seriously, this morning when the Dunbar township school bus in which they were riding was forced from the highway and overturned near Monarch.

Police said about a dozen of the students were taken to Connelville hospital and that six or eight others were treated at the school by a nurse.

Ernest Sepest, driver of the school bus, told authorities his vehicle was forced from the road by a coal truck coming from the opposite direction. Sepest was not injured.

Try drying dishes with twin dish towels. A fresh dry towel in each hand disposes of them quicker.

Former Oakdale Bank Employee Is Found In Flint

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29.—(INS)—A detective story fan's recognition of a magazine picture ended a nation-wide search by the FBI for Paul Alexander Phillips, 37, former assistant cashier of an Oakdale bank, special agent Harry T. O'Connor today reported.

Phillips, who was indicted in Pittsburgh in May, 1942, by a federal grand jury on 50 counts of violation of the federal reserve act, was apprehended in Flint, Mich., yesterday, O'Connor, officer in charge of the Pittsburgh bureau said.

Phillips admitted he had fled from Oakdale over two years ago with his wife, Sophia, and their baby, O'Connor said.

The family had been living in Flint and working in a gasoline station until a neighbor saw Phillips' picture in a detective story magazine and reported his recognition to police and FBI agents.

He will be returned to Pittsburgh to face prosecution for alleged entrance of false accounts and embezzlement at the First National Bank of Oakdale amounting to $14,860.

Demonstrations In Canada Continue

Canadian Authorities Prepare For More Serious Trouble Over Conscription Issue

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 29.—(INS)—Canadian authorities girded for more serious trouble today as demonstrations continued among conscripted troops now liable for overseas service.

Far from abating, the demonstrations seemed to be taking a more serious turn as 1,500 armed troops of Terrace, B. C., prevented a regiment at a nearby camp from boarding a waiting troop train.

The troops, armed with rifles and a Ben gun and wearing helmets, marched in ragged formation from Camp 2 west of the town to Camp 3 east of the hamlet, from whence the regiment was scheduled to depart.

The marchers, who staged the parade in defiance of orders, forbidding demonstrations, also took a truck with them.

In the face of the threat, the regiment scheduled for overseas duty stayed in its camp.

No attempt was made to halt the demonstrators, and townsfolk said they behaved "very well" as they marched through Terrace.

Canadian authorities also disclosed that an order restricting penalties for mutiny or rioting—penalties which include life imprisonment—had been read to men at several camps in northern British Columbia.

THREE ARE DEAD FROM DRINKING WOOD ALCOHOL

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—(INS)—Three men were dead today and five other persons were made ill, two seriously, after they drank wood alcohol at a party given, according to detectives, by Robert Smith, 34-year-old North Philadelphia.

The dead were identified by police as Smith; Marine Pfc. Leslie Manty, 23, stationed at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, and Charles Zeppelin, 44, of Philadelphia.

Still in serious condition are Mrs. Frances F. Manty, 22, wife of the Marine, and John Wesloski, 20, of Philadelphia.

Detectives said Smith invited the seven people to a party at a North Philadelphia restaurant and that he furnished the alcohol.

Cpl. Paris Deegan Home From Pacific Christmas Stockings?

Cherry Street Soldier, Wounded On Pelelieu Island, Home After Three Years Of Service

A mother's wonderful dream about her son was interrupted Tuesday morning, when Cpl. Paris Deegan, U. S. Marine, who was wounded while fighting the Japs as a gunner on a Yank tank, on Pelelieu last summer, knocked at the door of the Deegan home, 204 East Cherry street, and when she answered was soon wrapped in her arms.

Cpl. Deegan has been in service almost three years, and had never been home in all that time. He had been overseas in the Southeast Pacific area for 29 months, and was wounded in what was to have been his last combat mission. He was released from the hospital on September 25 and has virtually recovered from the effects of his wounds.

Mrs. Deegan, a widow, has two other sons and two sons-in-law in service besides Paris. They are Pfc. Carl Deegan, stationed in India with an Anti-Aircraft unit; and Cpl. James Deegan, serving in New Guinea with a landing unit. The sons-in-law are Sgt. Charles Watson, who is now in Holland, and S-2 C Hugh Stewart, U. S. Navy, stationed at Norfolk, Va.

Police said Smoller had visited the tavern and was returning to a parked truck when he apparently was struck. The identification was made by cards on the body.

Revenue Secretary To Dedicate Course

Driving Course At Deshon Annex To Be Dedicated Thursday, December 7
Work on the automobile driving course at Deshon Annex is about completed and plans are completed for the dedication of the course on December 7 at 2:30 o'clock and the "open house" inspection which will follow.

The driving course was laid out by City Architect Pele of Pittsburgh and is a course that requires turning almost constantly. It is not for the purpose of teaching men to drive as much as it is to give men with shoulder and arm injuries exercises which will restore the use of their muscles. The expense of materials has been paid for by the Department of Revenue, with men at the Annex doing the work. Secretary of Revenue David W. Harris has promised to be at the exercises and present the driving course for the use of the Annex men. Col. C. J. Gentzkow, commanding the Deshon General hospital in Butler will make the acceptance speech.

Mayor John F. Haven will not be able to be present to open the exercises due to the Third Class City convention in Harrisburg that week, but will designate some one to speak for him. Judge W. Walter Braham will be the closing speaker on the program.

Following the dedication exercises, the Annex camp will be open for public inspection and citizens will have an opportunity to see the work of reconditioning wounded men. Lt. Leo T. Nealon, commanding the unit, has promised a demonstration of remedial exercises in the gymnasium.

The dedication and the open house are open to the general public. It is hoped a crowd will attend the exercises and also inspect the Annex camp.

Telephone Girls Assist At Annex

Red Cross Girls Perform Unglamorous Duty Cheerfully At Switchboard
There have been many services performed by New Castle people for the men at the Deshon Annex. The record shows a long list of services and contributions made freely and cheerfully and all of them to the everlasting credit of New Castle citizens.

There is one job that is being done daily, one that is not at all glamorous, one that is tedious and tiring but being done just the same. It is the telephone service at the switchboard of the Annex. Call out there and a pleasant female voice answers. The young lady isn't a paid operator, she is a volunteer of the Red Cross, one of the staff assistants who put in her time and talents without compensation simply because there is a job to do.

The telephoneists are under the supervision of Mrs. C. W. Cameron, ten of them and their work is not unnoticed. Ask any of the men at the Annex.

The job doesn't rate the purple phrases given movie stars who entertain, but it is an important job that is being done mighty well and deserves the commendation of the community.

The only portions of Africa which are not involved in the present war are the Portuguese and Spanish colonies.

War Bond Show On December 9

K. D. K. A. Stars To Stage
Two Hour Show At Cathedral To Aid
Drive

BOND PURCHASE ADMITTANCE FEE

Bond buyers in the Sixth War Loan campaign, in Lawrence county will get a dividend entertainment on their purchases between now and December 9. As an aid to the campaign the KDKA band selling stars will stage a two-hour show in the Cathedral Saturday night, December 9, and admission will be by tickets available only through the purchase of bonds.

Many of the stars known to local fans will be in the troupe presenting the show. Billy Hinds will act as master of ceremonies. Bonnie Armstrong and his Georgia Wildcats will be on hand to pep things up, and other stars will include the Three Kindred Sisters, Jack Morris, Ed Shaugnessy, Betty Smiley and the Candelaria soprano, Betty Ellen Morris.

Seats Reserved Now

Seat reservations are now being made in the offices of the Pennsylvania Power company. The procedure to get tickets is this: When a customer buys his bond he will get a pink card with it entitling him to a reserved seat for the show. A $25 bond will get him a seat back of the sixth row in the first balcony or any part of the second balcony. A bond from $100 to $500 entitles him to a seat on the first floor or in the first six rows of the first balcony. The red card will be exchanged at the Power company offices for the reserved seats.

The radio stars will be seen and heard in only one show and no matinee will be two hours long. No matinee will be held and the capacity of the Cathedral auditorium, over 3000, will limit the number of tickets to be put out.

Bond purchasers who want to see a good show for no additional price over the price of a bond should get their seats reserved as quickly as possible.

The time required to select good seed is but a fraction of that needed to sow and cultivate the garden. Inferior seed may make all this other effort worthless. Carefully selected home-grown seed, on the other hand, may be as good as any that can be purchased.

SPEED UP COUNT

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29.—(INS)—The task of counting the 45,000 soldiers cast by Allegheny county residents was being speeded up today after representatives of both parties agreed to accept all votes cast by persons in service whose names appeared on local registration lists, even though the home address differed.

The county commissioners today were expected formally to direct the return board to count all votes cast, even though they were sworn to by a commissioned or a non-commissioned officer.

Veterans To Urge Production Speed For Arms, Shells

Twenty-Seven Soldiers From European Front Lines Will Tour
United States

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(INS)—Twenty-seven G. I.'s, artillery and infantrymen flown back from the front lines in Europe have arrived in the United States as special messengers from General Eisenhower to tell the nation of the urgent need for greater production of heavy artillery and ammunition. "Ammunition production has been very good, but it has to be better," Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson declared in introducing the men to a news conference.

Five spokesmen for the group, which will visit industrial plants, foundries and machine shops all over the country, agreed that the ammunition rationing made necessary by the shortage has seriously hampered operations against the Nazis.

Need Ammunition

"After repelling a Nazi counter-attack at Caumont, our ammunition was so short that we couldn't fire for three days, and both infantry and artillery suffered from German patrol action," related Staff Sgt. Edward R. Beardon of Waco, Tex., chief of section of the Fifth Artillery Unit in the First Infantry Division, firing a 155-mm. howitzer.

"If we had the shells we could fire twice the amount and do three times the damage."

Tech. Sgt. Alvin S. Jankowski of Chicago, Ill., attached to an 81-mm. mortar platoon, said the Americans fire 50 shells to every three the Nazis fire, but it is still not enough.

State Aids 30,000 Wives, Children

State-Federal Mother's Assistance Program Results In 14
Months Given

By JAMES H. SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 29.—The state health department reported today that approximately 30,000 wives and children of enlisted Pennsylvania service men were aided through the state-federal mother's assistance program during the past 14 months.

"In the first year of the program the department provided care for about one-sixth of all the babies born in the state," said secretary A. H. Stewart.

Vital statistic records show approximately 204,000 babies were born in Pennsylvania last year.

"At the present time there are 262 Pennsylvania hospitals participating in the program, and each is paid a per diem rate which is based upon the operating cost of the hospital," Stewart explained.

Under the program, inaugurated in September, 1943, wives and children of servicemen in the fourth and through the seventh pay brackets of the army, navy, marine corps or coast guard may apply for aid. An average of 300 applications have been received each month.

"This program has been able to iron out many of the wrinkles which are to be found in any untried project," he added. "In spite of the fact that more than 8000 letters dealing with the program are received each month, it seems clear that there is a more complete understanding of its provisions on the part of the physicians, nurses and hospital administrations as well as on the part of the applicants," Stewart stated.

"It is very important that a hospital or physician know as soon as possible whether or not a patient is eligible under the program and whether or not the department of health will pay for the services requested," he pointed out.

"At the present time, only three or four days elapse between the time the physician or hospital receives authorization," Stewart said. The program, which provides medical, hospital and nursing care, was expanded November 1 to include home nursing.

The program has been administered by the department's bureau of maternal health directed by Dr. Paul Dodds.

Millions Switch To Mutton Suet Idea For Chest Colds

Quickly Relieves Children's Colds,
Coughs, Loosens Phlegm

Many mothers all over America are switching to this idea of getting fast relief for these chest cold miseries. They are simply following Grandma. For years she counted on mutton suet to help carry her home medication to do its pain-easing work on nerve ends in the skin.

No wonder so many more now welcome Grandma's idea as improved by science—Penetro, with its multi-medicated formula in a base containing mutton suet—that acts both as counter-irritant and pain-reliever when you spread it on, and as a soothing aromatic when breathed in. And so today Penetro hurries along newer help in the old reliable way—help that eases painful misery, lessens coughing, loosens phlegm, soothes chest rawness—so that you can rest more comfortably and give nature a chance to restore vitality. That's why millions are switching to Penetro today—why druggists are recommending it. 25c, double supply 35c. For all your family's chest cold miseries, be sure you get white, easy-to-use Penetro.

Ex-Seabee Tells Of Pacific Life

Harry Hedges Heard By Members Of Executive Club Tuesday Night

Addressing an audience of close to two hundred persons at the dinner meeting of the Executive Club in The Castleton hotel Tuesday evening, Harry Hedges, an engineer-explorer and ex-Seabee, told the story of the conversion of a peaceful Pacific paradise into a fueling station for the battleships of the United States fleet.

"We cleared a strip of jungle land 6,000 feet long by 800 feet wide in three days, and then set to work with scrapers to make a run-way for our planes," said the speaker, giving an example of the rapid work that had to be done.

Work In Darkness
"When Japanese planes showed up on the radar we couldn't stop, even if it was night; we just went ahead and worked in darkness. The ships began coming back, and it was pretty tough at first. Some of them were so badly damaged they wondered how they stayed afloat. We couldn't tie them up, even if our work wasn't finished, so often we would be refueling a ship from the bottom of a tank while we were still working on the top of it."

Going to the two-by-seven-mile-long island of Borab-Bora to "get away from it all," Hedges and his wife were the only white people on the island when the Yanks arrived with their ships and landing barges, and the G. I.'s who were willing to pay the astounding sum of one dollar for a single coconut.

Navy Knew About Him
The admiral, who told Hedges that he knew more about him than Hedges knew about himself, signed him up immediately as senior chief engineer of the Seabees, and the explorer set to work with the Americans who had referred to him as the "Chink with the mustache" when they first saw him paddling around in the water with the natives.

Before the coming of war, life on the island was as perfect as it had been painted. Hedges declared fishing, about 29 different ways, was both the chief sport and the livelihood of the natives.

Clothes are no problem—food is no problem either; and the houses are simple to build. There are no animals on the island, and no poisonous snakes. Also, no malaria.

For governing purposes, the island is divided into three sections, each with an elective chief who can be thrown out overnight. The island is nominally under control of the French to whom the natives owe either taxes, or if they have no money, work on the road.

"There happens to be no road on the island, however," Hedges added. President James Rugh, who opened the meeting after the dinner, announced that the next meeting will be held on December 12, in The Castleton, when William H. Upson, noted writer, will speak on "Urgophobia," or the "Art of Being Lazy."

POWER OFFICIALS HERE
Directors of the Pennsylvania Power company today entertained directors of the Ohio Edison company, it was stated by local company officials. Among those who visited here was President W. H. Sammis of Akron.

From 1923 to 1939, the city of Memel belonged to Lithuania and was called Klaipeda.

Italian Political

Leaders Resume Cabinet Efforts

By MICHAEL CHINIGO (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ROME, Nov. 29—Italian political leaders renewed their efforts today to solve the current cabinet crisis after Count Carlo Sforza, designated as a candidate for the premiership or the post of foreign minister, eliminated himself as a result of British objections.

Count Sforza, who had been chief of the committee of six anti-Fascist political parties seeking to form a new government, declared that Prime Minister Winston Churchill had vetoed any plan which would place him in one of Italy's highest offices.

Sforza had resigned as chief of the committee which had been working to form a new cabinet following the fall of the government of Benito Mussolini.

(A Reuter dispatch from the Italian capital said that according to a government spokesman Prince Umberto had decided to entrust the formation of a new government to Bonomi.)

Death Of Actress
Is Under Inquiry

Evelyn Bostock, English Girl, Dies
After Drinking Party In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29.—(INS)—The death of Evelyn Bostock, English actress, apparently as a result of having drunk cleaning fluid by mistake at a film studio party, was under inquiry by sheriff's investigators today.
The probe was touched off when the undertaker to whom Mrs. Bostock's body was sent informed the coroner's office that a man later identified as a studio associate appeared at the funeral establishment two days before her death to make arrangements "for a woman who isn't yet dead."
One of the actress' physicians said Mrs. Bostock told him that she inadvertently drank from a bottle of cleaning fluid while "having a few drinks" with several others in a studio dark room on Nov. 17. She died yesterday after an illness of 11 days.
The actress, 27, was the feminine lead opposite George O'Brien in "The Cowboy Millionaire". She appeared in several other western films, but lately had been working as a script girl.

Vital Supplies Are Delayed By
Lack Of Workers

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—(INS)—Thirty-five hundred carloads of vital ammunition and war supplies are lying idle in railroad cars at Philadelphia piers because of a manpower shortage, it was learned today.
Allan W. Graves, Philadelphia service agent for the Association of American Railroads, and War Manpower Commission officials announced that at least 500 unloaders are needed within the next 24 to 48 hours if a serious transportation crisis is to be averted.
Ships that should have sailed for European ports several days ago have been held in Philadelphia awaiting the transfer of the materials to their holds. Graves said the goods include 140,000 tons of shells, equipment, clothing, drugs and Red Cross supplies.

No 'Dilution' Of Peace Time Army
Training Plans
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(INS)—Authors of compulsory peacetime military training bills—Sen. Chas. McNary (R) S. D. and Rep. James Wadsworth (R) N. Y.—rejected proposals today to "dilute" the program with social and educational training.
In this position, it was learned, the legislators are strongly backed by military authorities, who are anxious to see a peace-time conscription bill enacted in the next session.
"It must be chiefly military training or nothing at all," said McNary. "My bill, when reintroduced in the next session, will provide that."

Fair Or Foul

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Unless the baseball people are about to deliberately cross everybody—a possibility at all times—a successor to High Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis will not be selected at the major league meetings to be held December 11-12 at Chicago. Baseball prefers to carry on as well as it can for the duration or, at least, until after next season with a three-man commission composed of the league heads and Leslie O'Connor, the Landis house dick, who would not accept the job as czar if it were offered to him.

The job must be thrown his way. The baseball people are sore at him because he persistently uncovered the evidence that enabled Landis to take a full windup and throw those pitches that set the owners of clubs back on their heels. O'Connor did his duty. He and the dead commissioner made a perfect duet for the best interests of baseball. But he doesn't even want the terrible strain of fighting the people who pay your salary.

Frick Is Possibility

Ford Frick, president of the National league, who sometimes is mentioned as a possible successor to the colorful old czar who died Saturday, said today that in his own opinion no one would be picked out for the job at the December meetings or any time soon thereafter.

"It is too soon after the judge's death to comment on it," Frick said. "However, baseball will take its time in obtaining a new commissioner."

"I don't think one will be named at Chicago."

Meanwhile, everybody except your Aunt Emma is being mentioned for the job. They have begun to talk about General MacArthur, who at this moment has nothing else to worry about on Leyte but baseball, and General Marshall, who, of course, has much spare time on his hands with nothing to do but run a war.

Frick Sets Dates For Major Meeting

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(INS)—Ford Frick, president of the National Baseball League, announced Tuesday that the annual meeting of the heads of the Major Leagues will be held in New York at the Hotel New Yorker on Dec. 11, 12 and 13.

Frick's statement did not disclose whether or not a successor to the late Judge Kenesaw M. Landis is named at that time. Unofficially, however, it was learned that naming of a successor was improbable, although the subject will be discussed at some length.

Grove City Will Have Floor Team

GROVE CITY, 29.—After a lapse of three years, varsity basketball is to be resumed at Grove City college, with an eight-game schedule arranged and other contests to be added later.

Athletic Director R. E. Thorn is coaching the squad of 11 players. The team is not expected to match the achievements of Coach Thorn's championship clubs of the early 1920's, but will be a springboard for a return to intercollegiate sports competition.

Minor Leagues Bouncing Back

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(INS)—The minor leagues, badly shaken by the first impact of the war, are bouncing back, Jack Sheehan, director of the Chicago Cubs farm chain, said today.

Sheehan, commenting on next week's minor leagues meeting in Buffalo, N. Y., pointed out that two more minor leagues will rejoin the baseball fold next season after suspending for the duration. They are the Carolina League and the North Carolina State League, Class C and Class D organizations, respectively.

In 1942 before the heavy drain on baseball manpower there were 31 minor leagues. The figures dropped to nine when the draft reached its peak.

Hutson Is Again Leading Scorer

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(INS)—Concluding his tenth regular season against the Card-Pitts in Chicago last Sunday with two touchdowns and five extra points, Don Hutson today was just about assured his fifth consecutive scoring championship and his fourth straight pass receiving title in the National Football League.

Official statistics, released today, show the Green Bay end with a season's total of 85 points and a 27 point lead over Frank Sinkwich of Detroit, who has one more game to play during the 1944 pro campaign. Hutson's five pass receptions gave him a total of 58 for the season and left him a comfortable margin over Jim Benton of Cleveland.

Grigas Is Second

Hutson's total yards gained on passes, 966 on 58 receptions, is the second largest of his career and the second highest total for one season in the history of football.

Bill Paschal of the New York Giants, the league's defending ground gaining champion, regained his first place from John Grigas of the Card-Pitt combine.

Colleges Name Most Valuable

(International News Service)

Three men selections were added today to the list of most valuable football players on Western Conference teams in the season just closed. Michigan's football players chose Don Lund, who became regular full-back when Bob Wiese was transferred, as their most valuable man for the year. Lund already is a seven-letter man.

In a close vote, the Minnesota Gophers picked Johnny Lundquist of Granite Falls, Minn., who played right halfback for the second year. The selection of the Wisconsin Badgers was Clarence Esser, right tackle, who was practically a 60-minute man throughout the season. Illinois previously had selected "Buddy" Young and Purdue "Babe" Dimoncheff, both backs.

BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY CLOSING IN ON FAENZA HUB

ROME, Nov. 29.—(INS)—British Eighth Army forces closing in on the vital Nazi-held Italian communications hub of Faenza met mounting resistance from the Nazis in the region between the Lamone and Montone rivers, Mediterranean headquarters announced today.

Despite adverse weather and desperate Nazi opposition, British and Indian troops made slight but hard-won gains north of Modigliana.

American Fifth Army forces holding positions in the mountain passes south of Bologna drove back two strong raids by enemy forces.

RIFLE CLUBS WILL NOT MEET TONIGHT

Golfers Gathering At San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—(INS)—A field of 117 entrants prepared today for the San Francisco Junior Chamber of Commerce's $14,500 open golf classic, which opens its four-day run Friday at Harding Park.

The country's professional aces were brewing a potion which they hope will not be at all palatable to "Slammin'" Sammy Sneed of Hot Springs, Virginia, who last week end shot a 289 and won the Portland Open.

Among the vanguard of the pros to arrive in San Francisco are: Sneed, Mike Turnesa, White Plains, N. Y., who finished second to "Slammin'" Sam at Portland; Sam Byrd, Detroit; national open champion Bob Hamilton, Evanston, Ill.; Byron Nelson, Toledo; "Jug" McSpaden, Philadelphia; Ellsworth Vines, and George Fazio, Pine Valley, N. J.

In 1936 China exported only $22,000,000 worth of silk. Japan $130,000,000. Of these the United States purchased only $5,000,000 from China, but $130,000,000 from Japan.

What one gift pleases all men?

ANSWER:

Westminsters

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

OFFICIAL National Football League statistics today just about assured Don Hutson of his fifth consecutive major league scoring championship and his fourth successive pass receiving title. Winding up his tenth regular season Sunday, Hutson scored two touchdowns and kicked five extra points to bring his season total to 85 and take a 27 point lead over Frank Sinkwich of Detroit. His five pass receptions gave him a total of 58 for the season and left him with a comfortable margin over Jim Benton of Cleveland. Benton will have to catch 21 passes against Philadelphia December 10 in the Rams' only remaining contest to tie the Green Bay veteran. The league record for one game, held jointly by Hutson and Don Looney of Philadelphia is fourteen.

Puzzled when he saw a deer hunter last season take aim at a gray fox then withhold fire as the fox slunked away, Seth L. Myers, outdoors writer for Northwest Pennsylvania sportsmen, inquired why he had not let go with a bullet to which the buck hunter replied, he thought it was someone's dog. Myers asserts that even were it a dog, it should have been shot because the woods are full of wild dogs and, of course, they kill game to eat. Good dogs which are licensed, he writes, are easily identified at a distance, by the collar on their neck. They are not permitted to run loose in the deer country and are kept under control. He believes good hunters will agree with him that wild dogs and wild house cats are the worst game killers. House cats here account for many song bird deaths. Why don't owners put bells on their felines?

It is doubtful if ever there were a team here to win three championships in one year as St. Vitus reported this year. First, the 1943-44 basketball crown, next the baseball championship and recently the football title in the Catholic Grade School League. . . . Lieut. (j. g.) Sid Lockley who resigned as city controller (and incidentally left his Lockley Machine Company affairs to be handled by his brothers) to enter the Navy has returned to his station at Washington, D. C. . . . George G. Bender, recording secretary, I. A. M. writes: "Friend Ed: We wish to thank you for your generous co-operation in regards to the Patty Seybert benefit, October 15. The net receipts were $188.75, which have been turned over to the Seybert family. . . . It's a pleasure to help someone find sunshine in these dark days."

Sharon has allowed its playground program to fall apart according to John Pepe, writing in the Sharon Herald. He terms "em a hodge-podge of beg and borrow. The trickle of money put into the system by Sharon school board and the city council does not even merit for them the title of playground recreation." This fetches to mind that this city has two recreation bodies, one composed of laymen and school directors and the other of recreation workers named by people who donated to the mayor's recreation project fund. . . . For a long time council has wondered how much the school board here would appropriate to city recreation. . . . If any has been so ear-marked council has not made it known. The city has set aside $12,000 for 1945 playgrounds. The mayor's fund amounts to $13,800. The city, for operation of parks and playgrounds, has appropriated $55,000.

HOPE FOR COMPROMISE

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(INS)—Hopes for a compromise of the United States-British deadlock at the international civil aviation conference brightened today as debate resumed on the controversial issues. Delegates expressed more optimism than in several weeks after Assistant Secretary of State Adolf A. Berle, head of the American delegation, and Lord Swinton, chief of the British group, had worked on the knotty problem behind closed doors.

Patton's Forces Reach Region Of 'Phony War'

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE U.S. THIRD ARMY, ST. AVOLD, FRANCE, Nov. 29.—(INS)—Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army forces on Tuesday reached the region of the notorious "phony war" of 1939 as they faced the famous Forbach forest along a ten-mile front extending ten miles toward the northeast along the Saarbrücken highway from St. Avold.

The tell-tale marks of the first shots fired between the Germans and the French after the Nazi blitz into Poland still are to be seen in the region.

Ruined houses, broken trees, faded signs warning of mines which may still be buried here and soldiers' graves mark this jutting thumb of Forbach forest where Wehrmacht troops overran a Moroccan regiment some five years ago, killing every one they could catch.

Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels coolly explained away the wartime killings by saying "it should reach France an object lesson against despoiling Europe with slaves from African jungles."

Locate Mines
The Wehrmacht withdrew from Forbach forest after laying secret mine fields but the French located them by driving pigs and aged horses over the area.

Thereafter the forest was quiet except for an occasional shooting affair but the war of nerves developed speedily despite the silenced guns along the front.

For the past two days Americans just two miles west of St. Avold have been able to see for themselves the depth of that demoralization.

Formidable and undamaged Maginot lines spike every hill and command all approaches out of Germany.

But in 1940 the Wehrmacht literally walked through that line of forest at parade step. The Germans tried hard, through improvised diggings and mobile guns, to use the Maginot line themselves as a barrier gun. Patton's forces cut through them like a meat cleaver.

In 1944, even as they did in 1940, the German command directed its warfare from the great array of buildings of the edge of St. Avold which during the past few months has served as headquarters for the German army.

Correspondent Near Rocket Launchings

British Correspondent Tells Reactions As V-2 Leaves Launching Site

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(INS)—An eyewitness account of the launching of V-2 rockets by the Germans, probably against England, was given today in a dispatch by a special correspondent of the London Daily Sketch who is with the British second army.

The correspondent said that although he was thousands of yards away as he viewed the launchings his head immediately began to ache and his hands trembled from the terrific force of the explosion.

Accompanying an officer patrol into Germany, he said, the group reached no man's land and crawled to a river bank. Suddenly, from a woods, they saw a great gust of smoke and flame shoot vertically into the air and go tearing into the sky. Then a wave of sound and wind came rolling across the river into their ears.

A great hissing roar was heard which made heads rock. The correspondent said it had an effect similar to that of having a full hose of water showered directly on him.

Reducing Voting Age Not Likely

HARRISBURG, Nov. 29.—(INS)—Little hope of reducing the voting age in Pennsylvania to 18 was foreseen today by Gov. Edward Martin. He dismissed the idea with the comment that it was "a matter for the legislature to decide."

GOVERNOR URGES SHORT SESSION

Martin Looking Ahead To Short Business-Like 1945 Session Of Legislature

HARRISBURG, Nov. 29.—(INS)—Gov. Edward Martin said Tuesday that he looked forward to a "short, businesslike session of the General Assembly" in 1945 and speedy adoption of a broad postwar program and budgetary recommendations.

"I am anxious to make this a short, businesslike session because of the shortage of manpower and so that we can all get back into the war effort," he declared at his bi-weekly news conference. "We want it long enough so they can thoroughly consider appropriations and legislation that may come before it," he said. "Appropriations are more important this year because of the postwar work and the surplus we have in the treasury."

Surplus In Treasury
He estimated the treasury would bulge with a $170,000,000 surplus when the current biennium ends May 31, 1945.

Governor Martin said department heads had been asked to submit requests for legislative changes and budget requirements during the 1945-47 biennium. The governor said he would address the assembly January 2.

"There will not be any particular legislative program this session because we do not need much legislation," he declared.

The governor indicated he would submit his entire legislative program when he addressed the lawmakers in the evening of the initial meeting.

"I have a committee schedule to report December 15 on the consolidation of bureaus and the elimination of employees," the governor stated. "That may require some legislation."

Governor Martin said he had not decided whether to recommend merger of the state health and welfare departments to the assembly.

Mrs. David Riley of 1210 East Washington street was made glad when she received word from her son by Lieut. Mary Fivak of Homestead, an army nurse, recently returned from England.

Lt. Fivak stated that she had met Mr. and Mrs. Riley's son, Lieut. Fred Riley, confined to a hospital in England, where she was a nurse. Lt. Riley requested Lt. Fivak to convey to his parents Christmas and New Year greetings, and say that he has recovered nicely and was in good health.

Fred was injured in France, when he sustained a fractured arm. He has been overseas about 17 months, ten months of which he was stationed in Bermuda.

In Air Force, But Builds Model Plane During Free Time

Army Magazine Tells Story Of 'Nightmare' Built By Ken Tebay Of Northview Avenue

Being a soldier in the air force is no barrier to monkeying with toy airplanes as far as Ken Tebay is concerned. This New Castle boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Tebay, 419 Northview avenue, has been stationed at the air base near Port-of-Spain in Trinidad for five months.

Finding himself with what "The Beam," army magazine for the Trinidad base which wrote the story of Tebay's model plane career, called "plenty of nothing to do in his free time," he turned to a hobby he has had since he was a "big shot" in the "Small Fliers," a club for boys whose hobby was building the small planes.

Kenny's son, home for a tiny engine he calls the "Small Atom," and in the meantime talked the fellows in the carpenter shop into cutting bits of balsam wood into the right shapes for him, and got the men in the plexi-glass shop to make his propeller.

With an insignia designed by one of the boys in the outfit, the little plane, called the "Nightmare," took off one day, and to everyone's delight, made a perfect flight. Ken, however, is still tinkering with the plane because he feels, it doesn't glide as smoothly as it should.

SHIP LOSSES OF ALLIES REPORTED

Total Of 5,738 Merchant Ships Lost During War, 735 Of Them American

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(INS)—The number of allied and neutral merchant ships lost from all causes from the start of the war in 1939 until the end of 1943 totaled 5,738, including 735 U. S. vessels, it was announced Tuesday by the British and American governments.

The War Shipping Administration disclosed that the American ships lost due to enemy action and marine casualty totaled 3,311,000 gross tons. The number of British ships lost was 2,921 with a gross tonnage of 11,643,000.

The largest number of American merchant vessels—422—were lost in 1942 when Nazi submarine warfare was at its height. Britain lost 752 ships in 1941, less than the 892 the following year, but their tonnage was heavier.

The figures for 1943 showed the effect the allied effort had on Nazi submarines, with American losses dropping to 234 and British to 361.

America lost four vessels from September to December in 1939, 32 in 1940, 61 in 1941, some 422 in 1942 and 234 last year.

The British lost 156 ships in 1939, 728 in 1940, 892 in 1941, 782 in 1942 and 361 last year.

Call G.N.C.A. If Solicited For Journal Fund

Some time ago The News carried an article to the effect that telephone solicitors were endeavoring to collect funds for an army hospital journal, presumably on the grounds that this was a journal officially connected with the armed forces.

At that time it was said that this journal has no official connection with the armed forces. That statement is repeated again, upon the authority of high Army officials in this district.

Any solicitations for funds in New Castle for the benefit of the men in Deshon General hospital in Butler or the Deshon Annex here in New Castle should be made through accredited agencies. It is stated.

It is suggested that any person who is solicited for funds call the Greater New Castle association or the Credit Bureau for information as to the authenticity of the solicitor.

U. S. Has Enough Coal For 3000 Years

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(INS)—The United States contains enough coal to last us for 3,000 years at the present rate of depletion, Harold J. Rose, vice president and director of research for Bituminous Coal Research, Inc., of Pittsburgh, declared Tuesday.

In a speech prepared for delivery during a symposium on "Future Trends of Fuel" at the annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Rose pointed out that more than half of the world's supply of coal is in this country.

"When coal takes over the fuel demands now supplied by petroleum and natural gas, our coal will last for 1750 years at the present rate of mineral-fuel consumption," he stated.

In 1814, England obtained the Dutch colonies of Guiana and the Cape of Good Hope for 6,000,000 pounds.
